When To Answer A Fool

Proverbs 26:4-5 sounds confusing at first “Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest you be like him yourself. Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he be wise in his own eyes.” So which is it? Do we answer the fool, or do we stay quiet?

The answer is...yes.

Solomon isn't contradicting himself. He's teaching wisdom. There are times when answering a foolish person only drags you down to their level. If someone is being dishonest, hateful, petty, or just looking for a fight, you don't have to jump in the mud with them. Some people don't want truth. They want attention and a reaction. They want to pull you into their foolishness so they can make you look foolish too.

That's why verse 4 says don't answer him “according to his folly.” Don't adopt his attitude. Don't mirror his sarcasm. Don't match his anger. Don't let his foolishness turn you into the same kind of person.

But verse 5 says there are also times when silence can be dangerous. If foolishness goes unanswered, the fool may become “wise in his own eyes.” He may think his argument is stronger than it is. Others may hear it and be influenced by it. A lie repeated confidently can sound convincing to people who don't know better.

So sometimes wisdom says, “Leave it alone.” Other times wisdom says, “Say something.”

That's what makes wisdom hard. It's not just knowing the truth. It's knowing when to speak, how to speak, and when to be quiet.

Jesus did both. Sometimes He answered His critics with brutal truth. Other times He stayed silent. He never let foolish people control Him. He didn't answer every accusation, but He also didn't allow falsehood to go unchallenged when souls were at stake.

That's a lesson we need to learn quickly! Not every comment deserves a response. Not every argument needs your input. Not every foolish statement online needs you to become the defender of the universe. But there are moments when love for truth and concern for souls requires us to speak.
