Need to Live It!

Josue Ramirez

At one point during a game, a coach said to one of his young players, "Do you understand what cooperation is and what teamwork is all about?" The little boy nodded.

"Do you understand that what really matters is not whether we win or lose, but that we play together as a team?" Again, the little boy nodded.

"Good," the coach continued. "And when a strike is called or you're thrown out at first, you don't argue, curse, attack the umpire with a bat, or throw dirt in the opposing team's faces. Do you understand all that?"

The little boy replied, "Yes, Coach. That's what you taught us."

"Good," said the coach. "Now, please go over there and explain all that to your mother."

Many of us have attended Little League games where this conversation seems all too appropriate. It is sad to see parents acting in irresponsible ways, teaching their children—and the children of others—to behave in the same manner.

God has given parents an awesome responsibility—not only to teach our children what is right, but also to live in a way that shows we are willing to practice what we teach.

Bible teacher Moses reminded the parents of Israel to take the laws God had given them and "teach them diligently to your children" (Deuteronomy 6:7). Yet before giving that instruction, he first warned them: "Hear therefore, O Israel, and observe to do it" (Deuteronomy 6:3).

Before we can teach the love of God to our children and others, it must first live in our own hearts. May God bless all parents as each strives to do just that. May our lives be so filled with a desire to follow God that our children will listen to what we say—and learn even more from what we do.

"Be ye followers of me... as I also am of Christ." 1 CORINTHIANS 11:1
